Storbyte Introduces 32TB ECO•FLASH™ Drive at SC18

Business Wire November 8, 2018

DALLAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

STORBYTE, a leading storage technology developer and manufacturer, will introduce its new "Industrial Grade, Unlimited Write" 32TB ECO•FLASH flash drive and their full line of enterprise class storage arrays at the SC18 (Super Computer 2018) show located in the Convention Center in downtown Dallas on November 13-15, 2018, Booth #745.

Industrial Grade, Unlimited Writes, 32TB Dual Ported SSD Capacity

Storbyte ECO•FLASH storage arrays provide industry leading High Density / Low Power, High Performance features providing industry exclusive capabilities delivering on the demands of High-Performance Computing (HPC) applications, Data Analytics and Large-Scale Digital Libraries. The new 32TB capacity doubles the capacity of the Storbyte ECO•FLASH storage arrays providing industry defining levels of density, performance, and expandability.

IT professionals managing "High-Performance Computing, Data Analytics and Large-Scale Digital Libraries strive to deploy systems that provide rack space efficiencies with reduced power at reduced costs," said Steve Groenke, Storbyte CEO. "The new 32TB ECO•FLASH drive is a key component that will provide the ability to respond to all of these requests. Providing 131TB raw capacity in 1U, 524TB raw capacity in 2U, and 1.57PB raw capacity in 4U, the ECO•FLASH systems meet all three of these key requirements."

ECO•FLASH is ECO•FRIENDLY

The new 32TB eco-friendly thermal design consumes less than half the power and rejects half the heat of competing NVMe products, reducing total operating costs while directly contributing to substantially longer drive life. A key to the ECO•FLASH story is the ability to provide equal to better performance at between 300% to 500% lower cost per terabyte of any of the key competitive technologies in the market today. The purpose-built 32TB ECO•FLASH SSD, which includes a 10-Year warranty, represents a unique combination of established standards and true state of the art innovation.

SC18 marks the 30th Anniversary

Storbyte looks forward to Super Computing 18 and its long history of providing support to the High-Performance computing, Oil and Gas and Data Analytics processing community. The SC Conference Series has grown exponentially and now anticipates the attendance of over 12,000 scientists, engineers, developers, system administrators, educators, students, program managers, CIOs, and policymakers. Storbyte looks forward to meeting you at the informative SC18 exhibition.

To schedule a personal introduction to Storbyte and it's complete family of storage technologies including the just released 32TB ECO•FLASH drive, please contact Dan Miller - dan@inrcom.com

About Storbyte

Storbyte, headquartered in Washington, D.C., manufactures enterprise storage arrays that offer performance, power management, reliability, density, efficiency, flexibility and affordability. The comprehensive line of Hardware Defined Storage™ products has a dramatically different architecture with a patented, abstracted command and control capability layer over a commodity-based multi-mode direct chip-access architecture. The company has not lost sight of what is most important to end users: sensibly engineered products at a cost-correct price point.
